ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a system and technique using same for microactivating an area of the epidermis. The system includes a device and a skin benefit agent. The device microactivates epidermal tissue with efficiency and minimal discomfort. The system and method may be provided as part of a home-use kit for individualized use.

10

5